to adopt more sustainable practices. The Institution collects the solid waste from various sources, college buildings, hostels, library, garden and canteen.

The ban of plastic is applicable to the entire college staff and students. Students and staff should dispense the one time used pens. NSS volunteers monitor the cleanliness. NSS and NCC students are actively encouraged to participate for collection solid waste and cleaning all types of waste materials. Collection of solid waste is to create attractive and useful handicraft items. Scouts and Guides students create the awareness about proper waste collection and disposal for effective waste management.

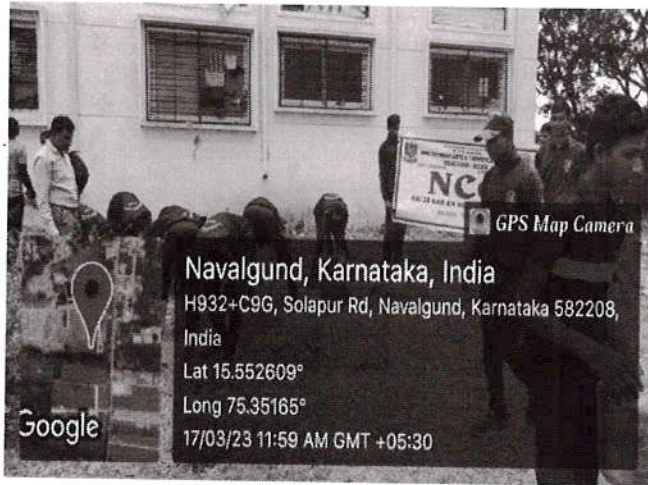

The institution aims to encourage a culture of sustainability and environmental responsibility among all units students while minimizing waste generation and promoting creative reuse of resources. Solid waste management is an important part of maintaining cleanliness and hygiene in any environment. The solid waste generated from the canteen and campus is dumped into Town Municipal Council garbage boxes. The waste is then disposed of by the Town Municipal Council of Navalgund.

Jalashakti Awareness programme 2020

Water conservation: Water is one of the basic necessities for every living being and we cannot imagine a life without water. Rainwater harvesting is one of the best method used for conserving water. There are different methods used to preserve rainwater instead of getting it wasted. The rain water is collected into a large water tank and channelled to multiple purposes. The water is used to water the garden plants and cleaning in the Toilets.
